Fence lines as shown on this plat range from old metal post with barb wire on the ground to old farm field type fence, but in bad shape. None of the fences would turn cattle. Existing fence lines were extended when it was necessary to complete the course (i.e. along the center of the road to a fence).
At the time of this survey the ground in the woods was covered with fallen fall foliage and most of the open area was covered in high (12"±) unmowed grass and wild berry bushes. There was no attempt made to do any clearing or searching for anything that might be under this undergrowth, except as noted herein.
